

DR. DALLAS JAMES SMITH

Dr. Dallas James Smith is a Clinical Pharmacy & Pharmacognosy Lecturer with the College of Medicine, University of Malawi in Blantyre, Malawi. He is an American clinical pharmacist from the state of Ohio. He holds his PharmD from the University of Findlay which he obtained in May 2017. His primary assignment is with the College of Medicine, University of Malawi where he empowers, builds capacity, and accompanies his Malawian faculty counterparts. Various projects that Dr. Smith is currently involved with are: the development of the inaugural Master of Pharmacy program in Malawi, establishing the first Malawian Herbal Medicine Database, implementing evidence-based care into the clinical pharmacy profession in Malawi, and promoting practical work in pharmacognosy. Before his journey in Malawi, Dr. Smith served in Cambodia from July 2017 to July 2019 as a community health educator with the United States Peace Corps in a rural Cambodian village. Dr. Smith enjoys exploring the topics of biosocial medicine, tuberculosis, neglected tropical diseases, and drug quality. Outside of healthcare, he thoroughly appreciates reading books about history, listening to musicals, and traveling to unique parts of this vast planet.